OBERON SINKS AFTER COLLIDING WITH ARCTURUS

CRASH OCCURRED IN A HEAVY FOG OFF LESSO INLAND

SIX HYDROPLANES OF DANISH NAVY ASSIST IN RESCUE WORK

Copenhagen, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—Fifteen passengers and ten members of the crew of the Finnish steamer Oberon were missing today after the vessel sank in a collision with the Finnish steamer Arcturus.

Four passengers and 32 of the crew were saved.

The collision occurred in a heavy fog off Lesso Island. The Oberon sank in three minutes.

An earlier report of the captain of the vessel expressed the fear that between 33 and 45 passengers and crew of the Oberon had been lost.

Six hydroplanes of the Danish navy were instructed to assist in rescue work as soon as the fog lifted.

Several of the Oberon's passengers were believed to be British. The Arcturus was badly damaged above the water line, but was able to assist in rescue.

The Gothenburg naval radio station reported that two boats, including the Swedish gunboat Svenskund, arrived on the scene early.

The Oberon is a vessel of 3,008 gross tons.

First reports received here said that passengers and crew who took to the life boats drifted blindly in the fog. An accurate check of the missing was believed impossible until the fog lifted.

The Oberon's captain reported that he had 19 passengers and 42 crew aboard.

One injured survivor was rescued by the crew of the Arcturus as he was swimming near the spot where the Oberon went down.

Olson Opens Probe Into Activities of the State Securities Body

Minneapolis, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—Governor-elect Floyd B. Olson has opened an investigation into activities of the state securities commission, a plea in Hennepin county district court revealed today.

W. H. Nash, defense counsel for A. A. Robbins, former president of the 10,000 Lakes Fur Farms corporation, who was convicted of selling unregistered securities, asked the court today for a continuance because of the Olson investigation.

Olson was in Washington, D. C., today and could not be reached for comment on the inquiry.

Nash's statements indicated that Olson was investigating the reported verbal assurance given Robbins by securities commission members that sale of muskrat units was not in violation of the state blue sky laws.

Evidence to this effect was not allowed in the trial of Robbins.

Nash said that Olson might recommend leniency for Robbins if his inquiry showed that the commission had given verbal approval of the sales on the grounds that the "units" were not securities.

During the state campaign, Olson attacked the activities of the securities commission and said that he would probably make changes in its personnel if charges against it were proved.

Nash's statement to the court resulted in a postponement of sentencing to December 30.

BLAZING GAS WELL THREATENS WEWOKA, OKLA.

NITRO GLYCERINE TO BE USED IN AN ATTEMPT TO SNUFF OUT THE FIRE

HEAVY BLOCKS AND TACKLES TO DRAW AWAY BURNED DEBRIS AT WELL

Wewoka, Okla., Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—A blazing gas well threatened today to destroy Wewoka and the surrounding petroleum fields.

The well, with a gas volume of 60,000,000 cubic feet daily, broke loose yesterday, hurling more than 3,000 feet of piping against the tall derrick. Sparks caused by the friction ignited the escaping gas.

Workmen today started removing steel debris from the mouth of the well, necessary before nitro-glycerin can be used in an attempt to snuff out the fire. Heavy blocks and tackles were used to draw away the pieces of derrick, melted and twisted by the white torch of burning gas.

So intense was the heat that only workmen clad in asbestos suits could approach the well. Streams of water were played on them as they worked.

Firemen were posted near the well, located on the outskirts of Wewoka and near the famous Seminole oil fields, to prevent spread of the flames to city homes, many of them owned by oil millionaires. Sixteen drilling operations and eight producing wells in the area were shut down because of the fire hazard.

The wild well, drilled to 3,887 feet, was backed by enormous pressure, causing the burning gas to spew high into the air. The well blew in out of control early this month, but was mastered after three days.

WALL STREET IS GROWING OPTIMISTIC

AFTER SINKING TO DEPTHS OF PESSIMISM, IT TURNS ABOUT FACE

By ELMER C. WALZER
(United Press Financial Editor)

New York, Dec. 20.—Wall Street sentiment turned abruptly this week after sinking to the depths of pessimism earlier in the month, when stocks dropped to the lowest levels in many years.

Short covering and some investment buying in three days this week brought the railroad average up more than 8 points, industrial 11½ points and utility up 3.38 points from their lows earlier in the week.

This week's rise was the first of any significance since September 10. Before that the market has been in a rally following several periods of decline. The industrials had dipped to new lows since 1927 and rails since 1924. Billions of dollars had been clipped from the valuation of all stocks as compared with the close of 1929.

Many of the leading issues lost more than 50 per cent from their highs of 1929. Less well-known shares lost as much as 98 per cent.

The rise this week brought the industrials up to 13½ per cent from their lows; rails 19½ per cent and utilities 10 per cent. The latter group was not behaving with the zest of the others.

DANNY STANTON GAINS ANOTHER DELAY IN COURT

FIGHTS EXTRADITION FROM CHI- CAGO TO THE STATE OF WISCONSIN

WANTED THERE ON CHARGES OF KILLING JACK ZUTA, GANGSTER

Chicago, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—Another delay of 60 days has been gained by Danny Stanton, a "public enemy," in his long fight to escape extradition to Wisconsin, where he is wanted on charges of killing Jack Zuta, notorious North Side gang leader.

Stanton and his chauffeur, Edgar Smith, were ordered extradited by Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday, but their attorney was allowed 60 days in which to make an appeal to the supreme court.

Stanton was charged with the Zuta slaying after a ballistic expert declared that a gun found in a car occupied by Stanton and Smith was one of the guns used to kill Zuta in a summer resort hotel near Waukegan.

"I'm prepared to show Stanton and Smith some speedy Wisconsin justice," said Dist. Attorney Herman Salem of Waukegan in commenting upon the decision. "They will be on trial within a few days after they land in my state."

Chicago, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—Acquittal of Jack Guzik, a notorious gangster, on charges of being a vagrant will not discourage Judge John H. Lyle and other officials in the vagrancy drive against "public enemies," it was said today by Harry S. Ditchburne, assistant state's attorney.

"This is just one case, he will not stop," said Ditchburne in commenting upon the verdict returned last night freeing Guzik on the vagrancy charge. The gangster, one of Chicago's most notorious, was tried under the old vagrancy law of 1874 which classifies as a vagrant any man who does not earn an honest living, regardless of how much wealth he may possess.

The defense contended that Guzik had made all his money, said to be several million dollars, by gambling and contended gambling as he did it was no more unlawful than it was for people to bet on horse races.

SEN. LA FOLLETTE ATTACKS HOOVER EMERGENCY RELIEF

Washington, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—President Hoover's emergency relief program was described as "wholly inadequate and arousing false hopes" by Senator La Follette, Rep., Wis., on the floor of the senate today.

La Follette said he would not obstruct passage of the administration's $116,000,000 public works and roads bill, but that he felt it "failed to meet the situation."

GRAND JURY IS BUSY IN DETROIT

HOPES TO RID CITY OF GANG- STERS AND CURB THE RACKETEERS

Detroit, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—Efforts of law enforcement agencies of Detroit to clear up the thus-far unexplained murder last summer of Gerald E. Buckley, radio commentator, rid the city of gangsters and curb the racketeers, seemed to be achieving real results today, as a hectic week of grand jury activities came to a close.

The jury's work was capped late yesterday when an indictment charging Ted Pizzino, New York tailor, with being one of the "trigger men" in the Buckley killing was returned.

Pizzino, returned from New York after a three months' extradition fight, was to be arraigned today before Judge Donald Van Zile. While he already was charged with the murder, the indictment will enable the state to bring him to trial without having to expose their evidence at a preliminary hearing.

Besides Pizzino, Joe Bonmarito, former St. Louis gangster, and Angelo Livecchi also are held on murder warrants in the same killing. Bonmarito, also under indictment, allegedly was another of the gunmen, while Livecchi, police say, pointed out Buckley to the killers a moment before he was shot down in a hotel lobby. Pete Livavoli and "Black Leo" Cellura, sought since the killing, have never been found.

THINK HE WAS ONE OF RAIDERS OF WILLMAR BANK

OFFICIALS OF PENNOCK STATE BANK SAID HE RESEMBLED ONE OF BANDITS THERE

SECOND HABEAS CORPUS WRIT SEEKING RELEASE OF KANE IS DISMISSED

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—Armed guards today took James Kane, bank robber suspect, to Willmar, Minn., where he will be viewed by witnesses of the $62,000 machine gun raid on the bank of Willmar last summer.

Partial identification of Kane as one of the bandits prompted officials to send him to Willmar.

G. C. Haug and Frank Berglund, officials of the Pennock State Bank, raided a few weeks ago, saw Kane before he left and said he resembled one of the bandits in that holdup.

A second habeas corpus writ seeking release of the suspect was dismissed today by Judges E. F. Waite of Hennepin county district court who ordered Kane remanded to jail when he was unable to furnish a $75,000 bond.

Kane was arrested in a raid on an apartment arsenal where two other men were taken and one was killed resisting arrest.

ARROWHEAD BODY JOINS IN MOVE FOR HIGHER MINIMUM

UPPER MISSISSIPPI BARGE LINE CO. HOLDS MEETING OF DI- RECTORS IN MINNEAPOLIS

PERSIST IN CLAIM THAT A 9-FOOT CHANNEL WITH DAMS WILL AID RESERVOIR LAKES

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 20.—While the Upper Mississippi Barge Company directors were discussing the nine-foot channel and its effect on the water levels of northern Minnesota lakes, the Minnesota Arrowhead Association in Duluth advocated action which would assure a higher level for the lakes. The association will attempt to have the Minnesota congressional delegation ask the secretary of war to maintain a higher minimum level for the lakes.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—The fight for the immediate construction of the nine-foot channel in the Mississippi river today had been carried against Congressman Harold Knutson, St. Cloud.

Directors of the Upper Mississippi Barge Line Company at a meeting late yesterday charged that Knutson had confused the minds of those interested in the nine-foot channel and the maintenance of the water levels of northern Minnesota lakes.

The statement said that Knutson was "deliberately confusing the public mind" when he said the water levels must be maintained and assured before the channel project is authorized.

Officials of the barge line insisted that the channel, if anything, would prevent further diversion of waters from northern Minnesota lakes instead of depleting them. They said Major General Lytle Brown, chief of engineers and closely associated in the river project, had assured the Minnesota congressional delegation that the channel "would solve the lake level situation in northern Minnesota."

The statement of the barge officials said that mass meetings in northern Minnesota last summer and fall clarified the situation or relationship between the two projects of the channel and maintaining the lakes' water level.

"Inasmuch as the method of establishing the nine-foot channel is to be through construction of a series of dams, pools behind the dams will insure a constant nine-foot depth, without any withdrawals from reservoir lakes of northern Minnesota," the statement explained.

The statement concluded: "It would seem that Mr. Knutson's attitude not only serves to confuse the public mind and bring about a delay in construction of the nine-foot channel, which improvement is sorely needed to aid our distressed industries and agriculture, but he also is actually injuring the citizens of his own district in withholding from them the agency through which will be re-established water levels in the reservoir lakes of his district."

"No good can come from dividing our efforts, especially in our present economic plight. We sincerely hope that Congressman Knutson will reconsider his recently announced position which may do irreparable harm to the residents of his own district as well as the citizens of Minnesota so long as he holds the office of congressman from that district."

George C. Lambert, chairman of the Upper Mississippi and St. Croix River Improvement Association, said that Congressman W. A. Pittenger of Duluth had joined Knutson in the attack on the channel because he did not understand the agreements reached at Brainerd last September between the channel and water lakes advocates.

The chairman of the improvement association said that the channel advocates at Brainerd had agreed "to stand for minimum lake water levels with the provision that they be fixed by army engineers."

THOMPSON IS AGAIN CANDIDATE

LEADERS OF 6 FACTIONS OF HIS OWN PARTY UNITING AGAINST CHICAGO MAYOR

Chicago, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—A campaign that promised to become as interesting as William Hale Thompson's historic "battle" with King George of England, seethed in Chicago today with every republican faction drawn into the excitement that followed "Big Bill's" announcement he was a candidate for re-election.

Realizing the more than usual importance to be attached to the office of mayor during the 1933 world's fair, Thompson went into action immediately yesterday when he learned that leaders of six factions of his own party were uniting against him.

While the other factions were meeting for 90 minutes in an unsuccessful attempt to select a "harmony" candidate to oppose him, the mayor called into session his own followers and issued his announcement.

The "harmony" group will meet again Monday and if the leaders agree upon a candidate, Thompson will be opposed by a man backed by a Snow-Brundage-Deneen-Carlstrom and others combination.

Besides these four factions, yesterday's meeting included representatives of the Illinois republican council and of Gov. Louis L. Emmerson. Emmerson's friends made it plain, however, they were not officially representing him.

Olson Opens Probe Into Activities of the State Securities Body

Minneapolis, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—Governor-elect Floyd B. Olson has opened an investigation into activities of the state securities commission, a plea in Hennepin county district court revealed today.

W. H. Nash, defense counsel for A. A. Robbins, former president of the 10,000 Lakes Fur Farms corporation, who was convicted of selling unregistered securities, asked the court today for a continuance because of the Olson investigation.

Olson was in Washington, D. C., today and could not be reached for comment on the inquiry.

Nash's statements indicated that Olson was investigating the reported verbal assurance given Robbins by securities commission members that sale of muskrat units was not in violation of the state blue sky laws.

Evidence to this effect was not allowed in the trial of Robbins.

Nash said that Olson might recommend leniency for Robbins if his inquiry showed that the commission had given verbal approval of the sales on the grounds that the "units" were not securities.

During the state campaign, Olson attacked the activities of the securities commission and said that he would probably make changes in its personnel if charges against it were proved.

Nash's statement to the court resulted in a postponement of sentencing to December 30.

SEEKING RELEASE OF KANE IS DISMISSED

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—Armed guards today took James Kane, bank robber suspect, to Willmar, Minn., where he will be viewed by witnesses of the $62,000, machine gun raid on the bank of Willmar last summer.

Partial identification of Kane as one of the bandits prompted officials to send him to Willmar.

G. C. Haug and Frank Berglund, officials of the Pennock State Bank, raided a few weeks ago, saw Kane before he left and said he resembled one of the bandits in that holdup.

A second habeas corpus writ seeking release of the suspect was dismissed today by Judge E. F. Waite of Hennepin county district court who ordered Kane remanded to jail when he was unable to furnish a $75,000 bond.

Kane was arrested in a raid on an apartment arsenal where two other men were taken and one was killed resisting arrest.

Realizing the more than usual importance to be attached to the office of mayor during the 1933 world's fair, Thompson went into action immediately yesterday when he learned that leaders of six factions of his own party were uniting against him.

While the other factions were meeting for 90 minutes in an unsuccessful attempt to select a "harmony" candidate to oppose him, the mayor called into session his own followers and issued his announcement.

The "harmony" group will meet again Monday and if the leaders agree upon a candidate, Thompson will be opposed by a man backed by a Snow-Brundage-Deneen-Carlstrom and others combination.

Besides these four factions, yesterday's meeting included representatives of the Illinois republican council and of Gov. Louis L. Emmerson. Emmerson's friends made it plain, however, they were not officially representing him.

THOMPSON IS AGAIN CANDIDATE

LEADERS OF 6 FACTIONS OF HIS OWN PARTY UNITING AGAINST CHICAGO MAYOR

Chicago, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—A campaign that promised to become as interesting as William Hale Thompson's historic "battle" with King George of England, seethed in Chicago today with every republican faction drawn into the excitement that followed "Big Bill's" announcement he was a candidate for re-election.

Realizing the more than usual importance to be attached to the office of mayor during the 1933 world's fair, Thompson went into action immediately yesterday when he learned that leaders of six factions of his own party were uniting against him.

ARROWHEAD BODY JOINS IN MOVE FOR HIGHER MINIMUM

UPPER MISSISSIPPI BARGE LINE
CO. HOLDS MEETING OF DI-RECTORS IN MINNEAPOLIS

PERSIST IN CLAIM THAT A 9-FOOT
CHANNEL WITH DAMS WILL AID RESERVOIR LAKES

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 20.—While the Upper Mississippi Barge Company directors were discussing the nine-foot channel and its effect on the water levels of northern Minnesota lakes, the Minnesota Arrowhead Association in Duluth advocated action which would assure a higher level for the lakes. The association will attempt to have the Minnesota congressional delegation ask the secretary of war to maintain a higher minimum level for the lakes.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—The fight for the immediate construction of the nine-foot channel in the Mississippi river today had been carried against Congressman Harold Knutson, St. Cloud.

Directors of the Upper Mississippi Barge Line Company at a meeting late yesterday charged that Knutson had confused the minds of those interested in the nine-foot channel and the maintenance of the water levels of northern Minnesota lakes.

The statement said that Knutson was "deliberately confusing the public mind" when he said the water levels must be maintained and assured before the channel project is authorized.

Officials of the barge line insisted that the channel, if anything, would prevent further diversion of waters from northern Minnesota lakes instead of depleting them. They said Major General Lytle Brown, chief of engineers and closely associated in the river project, had assured the Minnesota congressional delegation that the channel "would solve the lake level situation in northern Minnesota."

The statement of the barge officials said that mass meetings in northern Minnesota last summer and fall clarified the situation or relationship between the two projects of the channel and maintaining the lakes' water level.

"Inasmuch as the method of establishing the nine-foot channel is to be through construction of a series of dams, pools behind the dams will ensure a constant nine-foot depth, without any withdrawals from reservoir lakes of northern Minnesota," the statement explained.

The statement concluded: "It would seem that Mr. Knutson's attitude not only serves to confuse the public mind and bring about a delay in construction of the nine-foot channel, which improvement is sorely needed to aid our distressed industries and agriculture, but he is also actually injuring the citizens of his own district in withholding from them the agency through which will be re-established water levels in the reservoir lakes of his district."

"No good can come from dividing our efforts, especially in our present economic plight. We sincerely hope that Congressman Knutson will reconsider his recently announced position which may do irreparable harm to the residents of his own district as well as the citizens of Minnesota so long as he holds the office of congressman from that district."

George C. Lambert, chairman of the Upper Mississippi and St. Croix River Improvement Association, said that Congressman W. A. Pittenger of Duluth had joined Knutson in the attack on the channel because he did not understand the agreements reached at Brainerd last September between the channel and water lakes advocates.

The chairman of the improvement association said that the channel advocates at Brainerd had agreed "to stand for minimum lake water levels with the provision that they be fixed by army engineers."

MRS. E. J. QUINN IS HOSTESS AT A TEA

Entertains Thursday Afternoon in Compliment to Mrs. W. H.
Gemmell

Mrs. E. J. Quinn entertained at a tea Thursday afternoon at her home, 611 Holly, in compliment to Mrs. W. H. Gemmell, a delegate to President Hoover's conference on Child Welfare at Washington. The guests included a group of pre-war women who were associated with Mrs. Gemmell.

Mrs. J. H. Herbert opened the program, giving a resume in her own inimitable manner. It was beautifully done, and her remarks were most appropriate.

Mrs. J. H. Krekelberg, accompanied by Mrs. Louis Knudsen, sang most charmingly the numbers "Bird of Love Divine" by Haydn Wood, and "When I'm With You," by Carson J. Robinson. Mrs. C. L. Burnett gave several readings from a group of poems by Edgar Guest. One of these readings was in compliment to the group present, another addressed to Mrs. Henry I. Cohen, another to her hostess Mrs. Quinn and the fourth in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Gemmell. All were cleverly given and very pleasing.

Mrs. Quinn presided at the tea table, assisted by Mrs. W. C. Cobb, Mrs. J. A. Thibault, Sr., Mrs. A. C. Webber and Mrs. W. C. Cleary. Dainty decorations on the tea table consisted of white snap dragons, red carnations and ferns.

Mrs. Gemmell gave a 30 minute resume on the highlights of the conference. She was dressed in black, and wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses and baby breath, presented her by the hostess.

Mrs. Gemmell began her talk by remarking they all knew how much she thought of Brainerd, for no matter how many times she had gone away she had always come back; and she believed very few delegates to the White House conference could have been granted so delightful recognition as this which had been given her by Mrs. Quinn and the group of assembled friends.

As the meeting was quite informal, she gave certain personal impressions while in Washington, speaking particularly of the awe-inspiring effect produced by the Lincoln Memorial when illuminated at night—the figure of Lincoln in a glow of light, lonely in the surrounding darkness, symbolic of the situation during the war and also showing him forth as in a halo.

Only Three More Shopping Days Left

Subconsciously you obtain an air of poise and elegance when you use the glasses illustrated. Added to the general beauty of their shape is the witchery of the delicate etchings and the fact that the bowls of these items come in rose color, quite the smartest thing among latter day hostesses. A long thin stem in scintillating crystal, a softly colored bowl, a wisp of tracery in etching makes these Fostoria Goblets and Sherbets a delight to behold and to own. All are very moderately priced.

May we suggest the following as practical gifts for every member of the family:

expressive of the nation's veneration. She explained that the conference was divided into four sections: 1, Medical Service; 2, Public Health Service; 3, Education and Training; 4, The Handicapped.

A copy of President Hoover's address, a classic of its kind, she brought with her to be loaned among the ladies.

The mass of material of which reports could be made is almost limitless, but Mrs. Gemmell chose to dwell upon the report of the Medical Service as an illustration of the great amount of work which had been done by the more than 1,200 experts in the committees. She also quoted from Secretary of Labor Davis' address before the entire assemblage the first morning: "We now have statistical evidence to support the conclusion that any close observer must have long ago reached, that an understanding and affectionate parent, and particularly an understanding and affectionate mother is the greatest inheritance any child can have—the bet insurance of happiness and useful citizenship."

"No item is more important to the child or contributes more to our national welfare, than the uninterrupted employment of American fathers at a wage which will provide security and a reasonable standard of living for their families."

"Conferences such as this one, become of importance in the lives of children when recommendations are translated into action. The 400 or 500 pages of summaries and recommendations and the volumes to follow will be of interest to social historians, but will not improve the lot of children unless some work for the children of today is extended and improved."

Mrs. Gemmell then gave a report of the final session, beginning with the statement by Judge Cabot "Every child has a right to be understood." The summary is divided into 19 points of special interest. It proved so instructive and of general interest that the Dispatch has requested a copy of it, to be published next week.

Two Sides to Question

WHILE we are strongly of the opinion that the deer in northern Minnesota should be given additional protection, says the Bemidji Daily Pioneer, that the season should be shortened, that more closed years should be ordered and that the one buck law should be extended to more of the counties we are willing to admit that in time this policy might become a nuisance and require as severe measures as its institution.

At the present time it appears that the deer are being slaughtered to an extent that is alarming. The sight of a deer during the tourist season is a real thrill to those who visit this section of the state but the possibilities of that thrill are being rapidly removed under the present system.

An article, however, appearing in a recent issue of the Walthamian makes us hesitate about advocating too generous a treatment of the wild game, if the statements made can be substantiated. The article says:

Deer have become so numerous in many counties of Pennsylvania that they are not only ravaging farm crops but destroying the forests, their own natural food and cover of small game. Many does are not breeding but require just as much food as those that are reproducing.

The surplus stock of deer resulted over 20 years of protection of does and fawns. The deer herds increased, but the food for them did not.

For two years the commission has tried to reduce the surplus by permitting of killing does. This year the same policy will be pursued and 100,000 special deer licenses will be offered for sale. This will be in addition to the regular licenses for antlered deer and for a different season. It is expected that from 25,000 to 30,000 does will be disposed of in this way.

Some advocate the abrogation of the buck law entirely but the commission and most sportsmen of the state do not approve. They maintain that the building up of Pennsylvania deer supply from practically nothing in 1907, to the present surplus stock is an unanswerable argument in favor of the buck law.

Minimum Lake Levels

AS was to be expected, preparation of a bill by the Minnesota Lake Levels Association to conserve water at a minimum lake level in reservoir lakes, beyond which the government shall not withdraw water, has aroused antagonism and the Upper Mississippi Barge Line Company declares that Congressman Harold Knutson, sponsoring the lake level bill, is "deliberately confusing the public mind" when he said water levels must be maintained and assured before the channel project is authorized.

Brainerd people and Northern Minnesota have no bone to pick with anybody about channel projects, all they want to be assured of is that action by Congress will set a limit on reservoir lake water, beyond which it shall not be withdrawn.

If the nine-foot channel will conserve water in the lakes, well and good, but Northern Minnesota wants an act of Congress to assure a water supply beyond which it shall not be withdrawn.

If, as the nine-foot channel and dam supporters argue, it will not affect the reservoir lakes, but aid to conserve water there, then why object to a bill which sets a minimum level and makes such water retention a fact, doubly assured.

The Minnesota Arrowhead Association of Duluth has now also advocated action to assure a higher level for the lakes and is backed by the congressman of their district, Congressman W. A. Pittenger of Duluth.

New State Game and Fish Commissioner

WILLIAM D. STEWART, St. Paul business man and sportsman, seems to have been Governor-elect Olson's first tentative appointment and Mr. Stewart's acceptance as State Game and Fish Commissioner is expected shortly.

He is president of the St. Paul Builders' Material Company and is a lifelong Republican, but supported Mr. Olson in the recent campaign. He was president of the St. Paul Rotary club last year and is well known in Brainerd and the Brainerd Lake Region. Mr. Stewart has a summer home on Gull lake on the point near Buff McNaughton's and has often had Mr. Olson and family there as his guests.

In the meantime friends of Ed Rogers, county attorney of Cass county, have sent letters of commendation to Governor-elect Olson, urging consideration of Mr. Rogers for the office. Mr. Rogers was born in Minnesota, captained the University of Minnesota football team when it won a long string of victories, has a thorough knowledge of fish and game of the state and is an outdoor enthusiast.

Three Hundred Cases of Sore Throat

THREE hundred persons of the little town of Kirkland Lake, Canada, are suffering from sore throats, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Toronto. Five have died.

In a message received by Dr. J. M. Robb, Minister of Health, from his deputy minister, Dr. W. J. Bell, who now is at Kirkland Lake, it was stated that the disease had been traced directly to two workmen employed by a dairy.

"The milk from the dairy was unpasteurized," said Dr. Robb. "Had it been pasteurized there is little doubt but that the epidemic would not have broken out, as pasteurization kills the germs."

Outlasted the Guinea Pigs

THERE is nothing like getting thoroughly in touch with your subject, whatever you may be studying. Down at the University of Minnesota Bernard Flesche was studying Guinea pigs and found that an exclusive diet of hamburgers only tided the pigs over some two weeks when they died.

Flesche didn't want the Guinea pigs to endure more hardships than himself and also followed the same diet and thrived on hamburger sandwiches, water and coffee for six straight weeks.

Dr. Robert G. Green, bacteriologist at the University, made such an intense study of tularemia, that he contracted the disease while examining infected rabbits.

Two Sides to Question

WHILE we are strongly of the opinion that the deer in northern Minnesota should be given additional protection, says the Bemidji Daily Pioneer, that the season should be shortened, that more closed years should be ordered and that the one buck law should be extended to more of the counties we are willing to admit that in time this policy might become a nuisance and require as severe measures as its institution.

At the present time it appears that the deer are being slaughtered to an extent that is alarming. The sight of a deer during the tourist season is a real thrill to those who visit this section of the state but the possibilities of that thrill are being rapidly removed under the present system.

An article, however, appearing in a recent issue of the Waltonian makes us hesitate about advocating too generous a treatment of the wild game, if the statements made can be substantiated. The article says:

Deer have become so numerous in many counties of Pennsylvania that they are not only ravaging farm crops but destroying the forests, their own natural food and food of cover of small game. Many does are not breeding but require just as much food as those that are reproducing.

The surplus stock of deer resulted over 20 years of protection of does and fawns. The deer herds increased, but the food for them did not.

For two years the commission has tried to reduce the surplus by permitting of killing does. This year the same policy will be pursued and 100,000 special deer licenses will be offered for sale. This will be in addition to the regular licenses for antlered deer and for a different season. It is expected that from 25,000 to 30,000 does will be disposed of in this way.

Some advocate the abrogation of the buck law entirely but the commission and most sportsmen of the state do not approve. They maintain that the building up of Pennsylvania deer supply from practically nothing in 1907, to the present surplus stock is an unanswerable argument in favor of the buck law.

Minimum Lake Levels

As was to be expected, preparation of a bill by the Minnesota Lake Levels Association to conserve water at a minimum lake level in reservoir lakes, beyond which the government shall not withdraw water, has aroused antagonism and the Upper Mississippi Barge Line Company declares that Congressman Harold Knutson, sponsoring the lake level bill, is "deliberately confusing the public mind" when he said water levels must be maintained and assured before the channel project is authorized.

If, as the nine-foot channel and dam supporters argue, it will not affect the reservoir lakes, but aid to conserve water there, then why object to a bill which sets a minimum level and makes such water retention a fact, doubly assured.

The Minnesota Arrowhead Association of Duluth has now also advocated action to assure a higher level for the lakes and is backed by the congressman of their district, Congressman W. A. Pittenger of Duluth.

B. H. S. UPSETS DOPE BY DEFEATING BEMIDJI, 15 TO 10

BAER IS SUBDUED BY ERNIE SCHAAF OF BOSTON

TEAM SHOWS VAST IMPROVEMENT AND DESERVES TO WIN

NICE WORKING QUINTET TAKES LEAD IN SECOND QUARTER AND HOLDS IT

GREAT POSSIBILITIES SEEN IN SQUAD; HARMONY, KEYNOTE OF SUCCESS

The basketball season for the Brainerd high school is on and what a wonderful one it promises to be if Coach Bill Dammann's Warriors continue to play and improve over a former game as they did last night against Bemidji.

Going into that game as the underdogs the B. H. S. color-bearers surprised a local following of 600 fans by outplaying Bemidji by the tune of 15 to 10.

Last Tuesday night the boys played listless ball even though they did trounce Pequot. But Friday night it was different. Against such a strong quintet as Bemidji is becoming recognized as the blue-shirted and blue-trunked court strategists hit their stride, played nice basketball, and kept in the lead after the first quarter.

There must still come a big improvement in the B. H. S. quint and that improvement will come with experience and under the tutelage of Coach Dammann and his assistant, Ben Taylor.

But everybody was thoroughly satisfied with the showing of the team last night. There was that sweet court harmony, the delight of every coach. The boys played heads-up ball and ran through their plays in systematic order. If they can learn to break faster in their offensive rushes and if it is reasonably safe to say they will, Brainerd is going to have as nice a quint as the school has had during the past five seasons.

True, the team lacks beef, but what of it. Speed, endurance, accuracy in aim, that never-say-die spirit, and adherence to an experienced coach's teachings are more essential. And that, Dammann and Taylor have instilled in the boys—harmony on the squad, determination to play fairly, squarely and their best. If these conditions continue it is recorded here and now that the Brainerd high eagles will have a highly successful season and the Brainerd fans an exciting winter that will compensate them in prodigious through snow in sub-zero weather and—even in a few frozen radiators.

Coach Buck Robins of Bemidji was in a quandary. Here was his beloved team losing to Brainerd. His brow wrinkled and he scanned the floor and players to see just what was wrong. He recalled last year when he came to Brainerd and left triumphantly and happy. He couldn't understand it for another reason. Representing the more northerly city last night were three of the men who came to Brainerd last year, three men who Brainerd just couldn't prevent from getting in under the basket and scoring. And when one of these men, Connolly, went out on four personal fouls, it was still more perplexing. The other two lettermen back, Vipond and Krause, were the heavy artillery, but the range did not include Brainerd.

Patterson who is called "Stewy" by his intimate friends for his name is Stuart, played center position throughout the game and his height came in handy. He replaced Franks who sat on the sidelines with a bridge plaster over his nose, that member sore from a fracture in a recent practice.

The game had its casualty. Marshall, the most expert dribbler on the team and the pivot of offense plays the tall boy who stands nonchalantly in the defense zone dribbling the ball idly while his mates get into position and he raises his fingers to tell them what is coming, had an injury to a molar and a pet one at that. No one knew anything about it until the half when Marshall displayed a tooth that wiggled and threatened to come out at the least provocation. The tooth was the victim of an elbow in a scrimmage near the Brainerd loop in the second quarter.

No discrimination should be shown in praising the team on last night's showing. Every player made a creditable showing. McPherson, however, was recognized as an able comer to be valuable. He replaced Bob Wyle in the second quarter on the firing line and although he did not sink a basket his pep and punch was a factor in keeping the squad keyed to the situation. Elmer Foster, who now can be classed as the veteran of the team put a great deal of confidence into his team mates and came through to sink two free throws. White was a dominion hoop for a field goal and a free throw before he went out. Marshall scored the heaviest with three field goals and two free throws. White was a dominating factor in checking the Bemidji offense.

It was clean game, only nine personal fouls being called, six of these being against Bemidji.

The game by quarters:

First Quarter
Vipond received a pass after the tip-off and looped in one from close range. Connolly fouled White, the latter missing. In the melee to recover the ball, Connolly fouled Wyle who simultaneously scored. The basket counted and the sinking of the free throw put Brainerd in the lead. Marshall came through on a pass from Wyle and scored. Clarkson scored for Bemidji on a pass from Krause. Just before the close of the first quarter Krause scored from near the sidelines. Score: Brainerd, 5; Bemidji, 6.

Second Quarter

Foster opened the scoring in the second quarter by taking a pass from White from the sidelines, pivoting and dropping it in for a beautiful basket ten seconds after play opened. Marshall scored beyond the free throw line on a pass from Foster. Stevens replaced Clausen at forward for Bemidji. Connolly fouled Marshall as he came under the basket, Marshall missing one and sinking the other free throw. Bemidji took time out. McPherson was sent in for Wyle. McPherson, fouled, missed his free throw chance. Patterson fouled Vipond who missed. Score: Brainerd, 10; Bemidji, 6.

Third Quarter

White fouled Krause who missed one and scored one. Marshall sunk a long shot from near center after the tip-off. Foster scored on a circle pass around the Bemidji defense, Marshall to White to Foster. Connolly went out on four personal fouls when he blocked McPherson. The latter missed the free throw. Clausen went in, Vipond moving to guard position. Score: Brainerd, 14; Bemidji, 7.

Fourth Quarter

Vipond and Marshall clashed and Referee Mitchell called it a double foul, both scoring one on the free throws. Hoganson replaced Clausen. Patterson was called for charging, LaFleur missing. Krause sunk a long one. Krause was called for swearing and Foster missed. The Brainerd team contented itself with a semi-stall game and the contest ended with the score: Brainerd, 15; Bemidji, 10.

GETS 10-ROUND SETBACK IN HIS FIGHT LAST NIGHT

BAER IS CLEAN FAILURE IN HIS FIRST APPEARANCE IN AN EASTERN RING

ACCEPTS A LOT OF PUNISHMENT. HAS A DAMAGING RIGHT HAND PUNCH

By L. S. CAMERON
(United Press Sports Writer)

New York, Dec. 20.—Maxie Baer, talkative heavyweight of Livermore, California, was a somewhat subdued young man today as a result of his 10-round setback at the hands of Ernie Schaaf of Boston.

Baer was a clean failure in his first appearance in an eastern ring.

He had promised great things for himself but they didn't come off. The knockout he assured the writer he would land not later than the fifth round failed of fruition by a stout country mile.

Schaaf's prediction to the writer was that he, Schaaf, would win over the full route. This he did. The decision of the referee and judges was unanimous.

Baer proved that he can fight. He has a damaging right. He is willing to accept a lot of punishment, and does, but he is at best a fighter while Schaaf is a really finished boxer.

Their meeting proved once again that a boxer of ability and experience should always beat a puncher who is shy on ring-craft.

Baer was off to an early point lead. He was credited with holding his own or winning every round through the fifth. But Schaaf won the sixth and the remaining rounds. He decided to be contrary with the girls' team.

used it little last night. Instead he concentrated on Baer's head and face. These tactics were successful and for a stretch through the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds, Baer appeared on the verge of being knocked out.

Schaaf kept intact his record of never having been knocked off his feet in a ring.

Baer weighed 200 pounds, and Schaaf 203.

Bob Olin, 176, New York, won in 10 rounds over Joe Banovic, 173, Birmingham, N. Y.

Angel Cliville, 159½, Porto Rico, and Vittorio Livan, 157, Milan, Italy, drew in 10 rounds.

The Cadets will play seven of their ten games at home.

Teams Army will play follow: Ohio Northern; Knox; Michigan State; Harvard; Yale (at New Haven); Colorado College; Louisiana State; Pittsburgh (at Pittsburgh); Ursinus; Notre Dame (at New York).

Asks Boys to Play Basketball—None Come, But 14 Girls

Ash Fork, Ariz., Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—Coach Neil Goodman issued a call for candidates for the boys' basketball team today, but not one reported, and instead 14 girls appeared for training.

Goodman was signed to coach a boys' squad this fall, but no boys are now enrolled in the school.

So Coach Goodman has decided to be contrary with the girls' team.

INDEPENDENTS MEET FALLS FIVE THERE SUNDAY

RUSSELL CREAMERY QUINTET ENTER FLOOR COMPETITION AT LITTLE FALLS

TEAM COMPRISES FORMER HIGH SCHOOL CAGE ARTISTS; PETERSON, MANAGER

Russell's Creamery basketball team will swing into action Sunday when the independents journey to Little Falls to play a group of former Falls cage stars at the Falls High School gym at 3 P. M.

Lester Peterson, former E. L. S. star, independent basketball and baseball player and manager-promoter of previous teams here, will again be the guiding hand of the destiny of the squad this season. He has gathered around him such talent as Molstad, Lowe, Wise, Foster, LaCourse, Gabiou, Fuller, Dunn, Paine, Nelson and Burt, which names are well known here and against opponents in this district. All are former school sports bright lights.

Games this season may include the following competition: Tower, Superior Normal, Superior City, Alexandria, Crosby, Cloquet, St. Cloud, Henning and Aitkin.

Lions Not Bloodthirsty

Unlike other carnivorous animals, lions, apparently, only kill when they are hungry or attacked—and they do not slay for the mere sake of killing. They usually hunt in pairs—male and female together—and it has been observed that the lioness is the first to break cover, and is more ferocious than her mate.

Diving Costume

In deep-sea diving especially designed diver's dress is worn. The Seibe type of dress is much used in Great Britain and in the United States. It is made of waterproof cloth, with a helmet of tinned copper, having circular glasses in front, and valves to admit and discharge air. Its weight is about 275 pounds.

RESPONSIBILITY CENTERED IN FRITZ CRISLER

Minneapolis, Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—Re-organization of the senate committee on intercollegiate athletics of the University of Minnesota today gave Herbert O. Crisler sole administrative powers as director of athletics.

Heretofore strict rulings forced Crisler and former athletic directors to work through the senate committee on matters of appointments to their staffs, and other administrative functions.

The senate committee on athletics now becomes an advisory body rather than an administrative one. Director Crisler will still work under the approval of President Lotus D. Coffman and the board of regents or bigger matters but will not have to cut through the technicalities of the previous system.

ALUMNI GAME IS SET FOR TUESDAY

FORMER STARS OF B. H. S. TO CLASH WITH VARSITY IN ANNUAL EXHIBITION

Former Brainerd high school stars and stars in the making on the school cage team this year will line up in the annual exhibition game of the season at the B. H. S. gymnasium Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Frank Wise, Johnny Gabiou, Art Houtala, Swanson, Fuller, Hoffbauer, Echny Foster, Guin, LaCourse, Paine, Carvey, Goedderz will be among the luminaries of previous seasons in the game.

Proceeds of the game will go to the fund from which $250 was contributed to sponsor hockey among students this winter at the Brainerd municipal skating rink.

THISTLETHWAITE REMAINS AS COACH OF THE BADGERS

Madison, Wis., Dec. 20.—(U.P.)—The position of head football coach for 1931 at the University of Wisconsin appeared certain today to remain with Glenn Thistlethwaite, coach of the Badger eleven for the past four years, as a result of a decision made by the university athletic council last night.

According to a statement made by George Little, director of athletics, the council voted to make no recommendations to the board of regents concerning discontinuance of Thistlethwaite's services. It is considered highly probable that the board of regents will act on the council's recommendation.

Asks Boys to Play Basketball—None Come, But 14 Girls

Ash Fork, Ariz., Dec. 20.—(UP)—Coach Neil Goodman issued a call for candidates for the boys' basketball team today, but not one reported, and instead 14 girls appeared for training.

Goodman was signed to coach a boys' squad this fall, but no boys are now enrolled in the school.

So Coach Goodman has decided to be content with the girls' team.

INDEPENDENTS MEET FALLS FIVE THERE SUNDAY

RUSSELL CREAMERY QUINTET ENTER FLOOR COMPETITION AT LITTLE FALLS

TEAM COMPRISES FORMER HIGH SCHOOL CAGE ARTISTS; PETERSON, MANAGER

Russell's Creamery basketball team will swing into action Sunday when the independents journey to Little Falls to play a group of former Falls cage stars at the Falls High School gym at 3 P. M.

Lester Peterson, former E. I. S. star, independent basketball and baseball player and manager-promoter of previous teams here, will again be the guiding hand of the destiny of the squad this season.

He has gathered around him such talent as Melstad, Lowe, Wise, Foster, LaCourse, Gabiou, Fuller, Dunn, Paine, Nelson and Burt, which names are well known here and against opponents in this district. All are former school sports bright lights.

Games this season may include the following competition: Tower, Superior Normal, Superior City, Alexandria, Crosby, Cloquet, St. Cloud, Henning and Aitkin.

Lions Not Bloodthirsty

Unlike other carnivorous animals, lions, apparently, only kill when they are hungry or attacked—and they do not slay for the mere sake of killing. They usually hunt in pairs—male and female together—and it has been observed that the lioness is the first to break cover, and is more ferocious than the male.

Diving Costume

In deep-sea diving especially designed diver's dress is worn. The Selbe type of dress is much used in Great Britain and in the United States. It is made of waterproof cloth, with a helmet of lined copper, having circular glasses in front, and valves to admit and discharge air. Its weight is about 275 pounds.

RESPONSIBILITY CENTERED IN FRITZ CRISLER

Minneapolis, Dec. 20.—(UP)—Reorganization of the senate committee on intercollegiate athletics of the University of Minnesota today gave Herbert O. Crisler sole administrative powers as director of athletics.

Heretofore strict rulings forced Crisler and former athletic directors to work through the senate committee on matters of appointments to their staffs, and other administrative functions.

The senate committee on athletics now becomes an advisory body rather than an administrative one. Director Crisler will still work under the approval of President Lotus D. Coffman and the board of regents on bigger matters but will not have to cut through the technicalities of the previous system.

THISTLETHWAITE REMAINS AS COACH OF THE BADGERS

Madison, Wis., Dec. 20.—(UP)—The position of head football coach for 1931 at the University of Wisconsin appeared certain today to remain with Glenn Thistlethwaite, coach of the Badger eleven for the past four years, as a result of a decision made by the university athletic council last night.

According to a statement made by George Little, director of athletics, the council voted to make no recommendations to the board of regents concerning discontinuance of Thistlethwaite's services. It is considered highly probable that the board of regents will act on the council's recommendation.

Fire Destroys Two New Cars, Four Used, Two Customers' in Conklin Blaze

FIRE FIGHTING EFFECTIVE

Smoke Masks Play Important Part in Conquering Flames in Garage Basement

Two new cars, four used ones, two customers' cars went up in smoke in the basement fire at the Conklin Motor Co. garage yesterday afternoon while damage by smoke and water was done to 15 other cars in storage, R. D. Conklin, manager, said after a survey of the fire loss had been made. With an estimated damage of between $3,000 and $4,000 to the building owned by the Gould-Cray Co., damages will be approximately $10,000, the estimate fixed at the time the fire raged between 1:30 p. m. and 2:30 p. m. Practically all loss is covered by insurance.

R. R. Gould of the firm of Gould and Gray said today that repairs would be made to the building as soon as possible.

The origin of the fire still remained definitely undetermined although it is known to have got its start from the furnace or near it. Two explosions were heard in the early moments of the fire.

Firemen did unusually good work. The dense smoke made it impossible for any but those wearing smoke masks to enter the burning basement where the heat from flaming cars was so intense that it broke glass in cars stored 50 feet away.

Chief Frank Fuller, Dean and Art White donned the smoke masks and fought the flames at close range with full pressure water from three lines pouring tons of water on the fire.

The fire which centered around burning gasoline and oil causing dense fumes of smoke could only have been battled with the aid of smoke masks. Their practical use as necessary equipment to fire fighting apparatus was forcefully proven.

Besides praise from the owners of the building and the manager, the firemen today received a box of 50 cigars from Mr. Conklin as an appreciation of their effective work.

GIRL UNAFRAID BY GLADYS JOHNSON

ARDETH CARROLL is just a shoppirl, leading a very simple life, but her ideals are high. She looks beyond the drab existence marriage to Neil Burke would mean. Seeing handsome Ken Gladys with Cecile Parker, society belle, Ardeth's heart leaps. When Cecile's sister, Jeanette, opens a specialty shop, she asks Ardeth to take charge. Ardeth meets Ken at the shop. Shortly after, knowing Jeanette has left for the day, Ken calls, feigning he had planned to drive Jeanette home. He asks Ardeth to go instead. Ken plans a foursome of Ardeth, Jeanette, Tom Corbett and himself. Jeanette and Tom are unable to go, so Ken is alone with Ardeth.

Ardeth Made Happy By Kins Amorous Attention

CHAPTER VIII.

WHEN Ken had told of Jeanette's absence, desolation unbearable had swept Ardeth. She was like a disappointed child. Her lovely day—her beautiful day—snatched away at the last minute!

Then came angry rebellion. She'd go with Ken anyway! Suppose there were but the two of them? People weren't prудish about such things any more! She would go—she would!

They were defiantly gay coming over on the ferryboat, thrilling to a daring sense of romance.

Blue bay—blue sky—and the sun gleaming on the man's uncovered head. There was a little crease in his thick hair where the hat brim had pressed, a crease which would just hold her finger, thought the girl dreamily. Then she had given a little startled laugh at the thought and would not tell him why she laughed.

This golden day dropped into her lap, far removed from the other gray days of the week. Nothing mattered—Aunt Stel's nagging—Neil's jealousy, which would put the worldly gulf between them again. Nothing mattered while she was here with Ken on this golden day!

The thrilling sense of intimacy deepened when they left the boat and turned from the city. The country road they followed gave way to a salt-caked track winding through the salt marsh.

Wide flat—the blue car creeping along with Ken and herself. When they reached the ark they were filled with the wild spirits of children. Ardeth exclaimed over it all—the shabby cabin with its cushioned seat rambling around the room. The tiny kitchen, its one window looking over miles of marsh. The warped floor boards of the sun-flooded deck and the soft lipping of water as the tide seeped up the slough.

She tied a huge flour sack dish-towel under her armpits and helped Ken prepare lunch on the rustic wood stove. From the back of the car Ken produced a thick beefsteak. A jar of potato salad, French bread—butter—cheese. A box of French pastry had been jolly jammed in the trip over and sent them into gales of laughter.

It was easy to laugh today. Just the sight of Ken with a dish-towel tied about his neck, solemnly jacking whipped cream from his fingertips, was sufficient to move the girl to tender ridicule. Just the sight of a sooty nose streaking Ardeth's cheek was enough to start Ken's nose racing over the marshes.

They were thrillingly aware of each other's presence. Aware of the empty miles which closed them here together. They could butted their secret excitement with an almost hectic gaiety.

They burned their fingers and broke plates. They dropped forks and dived for them at the same moment so their heads came smartly together. They salted the salad too much and entirely forgot to season the steak.

Ardeth cut her finger and Ken bound it with a strip of clean dish-towel. That moment of close contact, when he held her hand in his own, silenced the man's high spirits and sent the blood surging through his body.

They ate lunch on the shady side of the deck overlooking the blue bay. Ken was in hilarious spirits again. He played waiter, hanging a napkin over his arm and waving Ardeth to her seat with an elaborate flourish.

"Ham, lamb, mutton, sheep or mutton? Name your animal, ledly!"

couch, a crimped little heap, watching him with deep eyes.

With the lighted cigarette Ken came back and sat down beside her. His eyes were dark, but he managed a faint smile.

"How can I help it when you're so sweet?" he asked.

Her lashes lifted. "You think I'm sweet?"

And he was on fire again. "The sweetest thing in the world!" he said between clenched teeth. "A day I've been fighting to keep my hands off of you. I wanted to kiss you the first time I saw you—I wanted to reach in the window and pull you out!"

"That wasn't the first time," she said faintly.

"No," he agreed more steadily. "I saw you first in the park. We looked at each other—and I couldn't get you out of my head all day." He gave a harsn little laugh. "And what a scowl I got from the fellow you were with! He could have killed me!"

The thought of Nell intruding between them, spoiling the enchantment of the moment.

Ardeth made a little impatient gesture. "Oh—he doesn't count. Just a—friend," she evaded.

They avoided each other's eyes. Both stared out over the marsh.

Still. So thrillingly still. The sunshine had deepened in tone—it had taken on the deep golden tinge of afternoon—a mellow tone somehow sad. Miles of sun-baked saw-grass and blue bay . . . an empty world and in the centre of it just they two.

Ken had pitched his cigarette over the rail. She felt his eyes on her face. . . . Then again she was drawn into his arms. His ardent face poised just above her own, between his narrowed lashes his eyes were dark as ink.

"Crazy about you, Moth!" His voice shook though he tried to make it light. "Like me a little?"

"A little." She tried to smile and knew her lips were trembling.

"A lot?"

His breath was warm on her lips. "You're beautiful, Moth. Too darn beautiful! There ought to be a law against you!"

She tried to smile and felt tears sting her eyes. "As beautiful as Cecile Parker?" She could not help that slipping out.

A small silence dropping between them, darkening the day. His arms slipped from her. He sat upright and his eyes went out across the marsh.

"Cecile . . ." His voice was dry. "What brought her to your mind?"

Ardeth moistened her lips. Her eyes were fastened on his tense profile.

"Oh . . . nothing. Just because you were with her that day I saw you in the park, I suppose. You—you're great friends, aren't you?"

"Oh, sure," he answered carelessly. "The Parkers are old family friends of ours. There's just mother and me left in our family, you know. When I finished my engineering course at college, I went into Mr. Parker's office. They've all been mighty decent to mother and me."

Something creeping between them . . . darkening the bright day. "I thought . . . I thought . . ."

she stammered.

"You thought I was rolling in money—like the Parkers?" he finished the thought for her.

"Thanks for the compliment. I'm just a poor working man, Moti. Supporting my mother like the heroes of the Henry books I used to read when I was a kid . . ."

Something odd in his tone when he spoke of his mother. Ardeth looked up quickly. He was staring across the marshes, lost in thought. His eyes were narrowed painfully.

Just a fleeting expression, gone as soon as she noticed it—gone as the cloud shadows passed over the sloughs.

As though he felt her eyes looked down and his arms tightened about her shoulders.

Blue fires kindled in his eyes and he smiled.

"Why all the conversation, sweetheart, when I could be kissing you?"

STOP A COUGH IN TIME

Or It May Develop Seriously

It may be "only a cough" today, but tomorrow it may be something serious. A "slight cough" has been the start of many a permanent cough as well as grave illness. The time to stop a cough is before it gets rooted. The quick and effective remedy is good, dependable old Skauge's Never Cough.

Skauge's Never Cough does the five things necessary to stop a cough and repair the damage done. It checks the cough spasm, loosens the mucus, opens the air passages, soothes the inflamed tissues and at the same time, has a tonic effect that tends to build up what the cough tears down. Only Skauge's Never Cough supplies these five vital effects and it contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach. Safe to give, even to babies.

GIRL UNAFRAID

BY GLADYS JOHNSON

ARDETH CARROLL is just a shopgirl, leading a very simple life, but her ideals are high. She looks beyond the drab existence marriage to Neil Burke would mean. Seeing handsome Ken Gleason with Cecile Parker, society belle, Ardeeth's heart leaps. When Cecile's sister, Jeanette, opens a specialty shop, she asks Ardeeth to take charge. Ardeeth meets Ken at the shop. Shortly after, knowing Jeanette has left for the day, Ken calls, feigning he had planned to drive Jeanette home. He asks Ardeeth to go instead. Ken plans a foursome of Ardeeth, Jeanette, Tom Corbett and himself. Jeanette and Tom are unable to go, so Ken is alone with Ardeeth.

Ardeth Made Happy By Kens Amorous Attention

CHAPTER VIII.

WHEN Ken had told of Jeanette's absence, desolation unbearable had swept Ardeeth. She was like a disappointed child. Her lovely day—her beautiful day—snatched away at the last minute!

Then came angry rebellion. She'd go with Ken anyway! Suppose there were but the two of them? People weren't prying about such things any more! She would go—she would!

They were defiantly gay coming over on a ferryboat, thrilling to a daring sense of romance. Blue bay—blue sky—and the sun gleaming on the man's uncovered head. There was a little crease in his thick hair where the hat brim had pressed, a crease which would just hold her finger, thought the girl dreamily. Then she had given a little startled laugh at the thought and would not tell him why she laughed.

This golden day dropped into her lap, far removed from the other gray days of the week. Nothing mattered—Aunt Stel's nagging—Neil's jealousy—Cecile Parker—not even tomorrow, which would put the worldly gulf between them again. Nothing mattered while she was here with Ken on this golden day!

The thrilling sense of intimacy deepened when they left the boat and turned from the city. The country road they followed gave way to a salt-caked track winding through the salt marsh. Wide sky—wide flat—the blue car creeping along with Ken and herself.

When they reached the ark they were filled with the wild spirits of children. Ardeeth exclaimed over it all—the shabby cabin with its cushioned seat rambling around the room. The tiny kitchen, its one window looking over miles of marsh. The warped floor boards of the sun-flooded deck and the soft lipping of water as the tide seeped up the slough.

She tied a huge flour sack dish-towel under her armpits and helped Ken prepare lunch on the rusty wood stove. From the back of the car Ken produced a thick beefsteak. A jar of potato salad, French bread—butter—cheese. A box of French pastry had been jammed in the trip over and sent them into a roar of laughter.

It was easy to laugh today, just the sight of Ken with a disheveled head about his neck, solemnly jelling whipped cream from his fingertips, was sufficient to move the girl to tender ridicule.

Just the sight of a sooty judge streaking Ardeeth's nose was enough to start Ken's shout, raging over the marshing aware of each other's presence. Aware of the empty miles which closed them here together. They committed their secret excitement with an almost hectic gaiety.

They burned their fingers and broke plates. They dropped forks and dived for them at the same moment so their heads came smartly together. They salted the salad too much and entirely forgot to season the steak.

Ardeeth cut her finger and Ken bound it with a strip of clean dish-towel. That moment of close contact, when he held her hand in his own, silenced the man's high spirits and sent the blood surging through his body.

They ate lunch on the shady side of the deck overlooking the blue bay. Ken was in hilarious spirits again. He played waiter, hanging a napkin over his arm and waving Ardeeth to her seat with an elaborate flourish.

"Ham, lamb, ram, sheep or nut-ton? Name your animal, ledly!"

The steak is the piece of resistance—if you bend it we can't take it back!

After luncheon they cleared the table, stacked the clean plates back on the kitchen shelves and went out again onto the deck.

Ardeeth flung herself on a rattan couch piled with faded cushions. Ken perched on the rail and lit a cigarette.

At first they talked easily. Gay inconsequential chatter—of the shop—of Jeanette—Ken told incidents of his college days. He spoke of Tom Corbett, who owned the ark with him.

"We roomed together at the university. Tom's a prince of a fellow. I'll bring him in sometime to meet you. I've an idea Jeanette likes him pretty well. Maybe if he'd come today Jennie would have forgot to remember her house party. Oh, well, we don't miss 'em, do we, Moth?"

Her gaze wavered. Broke away from his in confusion. She gave a shaky little laugh.

"I should say not! It's their loss—"

And suddenly she could not go on.

Silence growing between them. Sprung. The wide sun-flooded country was tumultuous with expectancy. The air between them ached with unspoken words.

She felt the weight of Ken's gaze, but found of a sudden that she could not lift her lashes. Her heart set up a rapid pounding.

Ken had slipped from the rail. He came over—seated himself beside her on the couch.

Then his arms went about her—his ardent face poised over her own.

"Oh... no!" Her own voice in an unconvincing little gasp just before his lips crushed down on her own in a kiss which seemed to draw her heart between their lips.

The sunny marsh beyond the deck rail—empty blue sky—Ken's face bending over her—all swam in a dizzy swirl to Ardeeth.

The smell of peeling paint... warm grass... soft lipping of water on the prow of a boat—ever after these things could send the same hot magic leaping through her blood.

A breathless hush closing down about them, shutting them in with the drowsy hush of the day.

Ardeeth's head was flung back in complete surrender. She gave up her lips to Ken's kiss as eagerly as the parched earth drinks rain. The next moment reason reawoke. She forced herself out of the man's arms with a little gasp.

"Oh... she said. "Oh... and she gave a shaky laugh." He did not respond. His eyes were dark—his lips compressed.

"You darling..." His hand shook as it went over the shining mass of her hair. "Darling..." She was in his arms again, and after a moment her own arms crept up about his neck. A long moment they stood silent in the sunshine. Ken's face was buried in her hair. His breath was hot on her ear. She could feel the pumping of his heart shaking them both.

In her heart joy so keen that it was pain: She was trying to realize that... Ken—this was Ken who held her in a fierce embrace. Ken's arms imprisoning her... his voice, a husky whisper...

"Darling..." He was kissing her closed eyelids. Ardeeth felt that little—ever so little—would make her cry. Then he was kissing her again—crushing her lips until they hurt. And surging through her blood a primitive exultation of strength.

A moment sweet and heady carrying her out of herself so that she clung like a wild thing, giving him back his kiss with equal ardor.

It was the man who finally drew away. He released her so suddenly that it left her startled. He turned away—walked to the rail and lit a cigarette.

The girl had sunk back on the couch, a crimped little heap, watching him with deep eyes. With the lighted cigarette Ken came back and sat down beside her. His eyes were dark, but he managed a faint smile.

"How can I help it when you're so sweet?" he asked.

Her lashes lifted. "You think I'm sweet?"

And he was on fire again. "The sweetest thing in the world!" He said between clenched teeth. "As day I've been fighting to keep my hands off of you. I wanted to kiss you the first time I saw you—I wanted to reach in the window and pull you out!"

"That wasn't the first time," she said faintly. "No," he agreed more steadily. "I saw you first in the park. We looked at each other—and I couldn't get you out of my head all day." He gave a harsn little laugh. "And what a scowl I got from the fellow you were with! He could have killed me!"

The thought of Neil intruding between them spilling the enchantment of the moment. Ardeeth made a little impatient gesture. "Oh, he doesn't count. Just a—friend," she evaded.

They avoided each other's eyes. Both stared out over the marsh. Still. So thrillingly still. The sunshine had deepened in tone—it had taken on the deep golden tinge of afternoon—a mellow tone somehow sad. Miles of sun-baked saw-grass and blue bay—an empty world and in the centre of it just they two.

Ken had pitched his cigarette over the rail. She felt his eyes on her face. Then again she was drawn into his arms. His ardent face poised just above her own, between his narrowed lashes his eyes were dark as ink.

"Crazy about you, Moth!" His voice shook though he tried to make it light. "Like me a little?" "A little." She tried to smile and knew her lips were trembling. "A lot?"

His breath was warm on her lips. You're beautiful, Moth. Too damn beautiful! There ought to be a law against you!"

She tried to smile and felt tears sting her eyes. "As beautiful as Cecile Parker?" She could not help that slipping out.

A small silence dropping between them, darkening the day. His arms slipped from her. He sat upright and his eyes went out across the marsh.

"Cecile?" His voice was dry. "What brought her to your mind?"

Ardeeth moistened her lips. Her eyes were fastened on his tense profile.

"Oh... nothing. Just because you were with her that day I saw you in the park, I suppose. You—you're great friends, aren't you?"

"Oh, sure," he answered carelessly. "The Parkers are old family friends of ours. There's just mother and me left in our family, you know. When I finished my engineering course at college, I went into Mr. Parker's office. They've all been mighty decent to mother and me."

Something creeping between them... darkening the bright day. "I thought... I thought..." she stammered.

"You thought I was rolling in money—like the Parkers?" He finished the thought for her. "Thanks for the compliment. I'm just a poor working man, Moth. Supporting my mother like the heroes of the Henry books I used to read when I was a kid..."

Something odd in his tone when he spoke of his mother. Ardeeth looked up quickly. He was staring across the marshes, lost in thought. His eyes were narrowed painfully.

Just a fleeting expression, gone as soon as she noticed it—gone as the cloud shadows passed over the sloughs.

As though he felt her eyes he looked down and his arms tightened about her shoulders.

Blue fires kindled in his eyes and he smiled.

"Why all the conversation, sweetheart, when I could be kissing you?"

STOP A COUGH IN TIME

Or It May Develop Seriously

It may be "only a cough" today, but tomorrow it may be something serious. A "slight cough" has been the start of many a permanent cough as well as grave illness. The time to stop a cough is before it gets rooted. The quick and effective remedy is good, dependable old Skaugs's Never Cough.

Skaugs's Never Cough does the five things necessary to stop a cough and repair the damage done. It checks the cough spasm, loosens the mucus, opens the air passages, soothes the inflamed tissues and at the same time, has a tonic effect that tends to build up what the cough tears down. Only Skaugs's Never Cough supplies these five vital effects and it contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach. Safe to give, even to babies.
